

It's time for the homeowners who live near the airport to be heard. The noise factor has been very difficult to live with these past years. Many times jets idle at the end of the runway facing west with their engines roaring for what seems like an eternity. Why is it that these jets can't stay in the center of the airport rather than hold at the end of the runway? Most of our neighbors have lived in this area for well over 20 years and know what it was like to have a "no jets allowed airport". If we must exist with the jets how about doing something about the noise?
